FRIDAY EVENING, AUGUST 6

To Avoid SEA SICKNESS. - Many persons could have a much more pleasant and varied holiday if it were not for the suffering caused by sea sickness. How-real and how severe this suffering is many readers will not in the least comprehend; while others understand it but too well. In the first place, sea sickness is mainly the result of the motion of the ship atfeeting the brain. This may be confirmed by observing that the motion of a swing or even of a passenger life in an hotel will affect many persons very nonleasantly. Hence it follows that persons of xuitable comperament or susceptible nerves are the most likely to suffer at

In prospect of a voyage, persons liable to sea sickness should keep themselves as calm as pes sible. If there is fuss and hurry and ax ite ment up to the last moment before starting, the liability is much increased. It is also well to be specially earsful of the diet and the gen eral health for a few days before sailing, and particularly not to indulge in rich ford. The marvelous connection between the brain and the stomach which causes sea sickness may thus be turned to account in resisting it. Sherely before starting, a plain and nourishing but not heavy meal should be taker. This rule scare ly admirs of any exception; on no account go to sea with an empty stomach.
